History

NUI Galway, one of Ireland's oldest Universities enjoys a 160 year history of comprehensive and globally aware education. We are the country's premier university in the fields of Biomedical Science/Innovation, Software Engineering and Informatics, Human Rights, Arts and Theatre, and Applied Social Sciences.

Rankings

NUI Galway is consistently ranked inside the top 2% of Universities worldwide and was the only Irish University to increase its position in the two main international rankings, the Times Higher Education (THE) World University Rankings (243rd in the world) and also QS World University Rankings (249th in the world).

Peter Freyer graduated from Galway with a degree in Medicine in 1874. He went on to become civil surgeon with the Indian Medical Service, first at Azamgargh in Uttar Pradesh, and later at Moradabad near Delhi. He served with the Indian Medical Service for 20 years and published much of his research in the Indian Medical Journal. He was a famous pioneer in biomedical innovation, and is credited for developing the operation now known as prostatectomy.

Max Arthur Macauliffe graduated from Galway with a degree in languages, classics and history in 1863. He entered the Indian Civil Service in 1862, and went on to hold several senior positions before retiring in 1893. He was a prolific scholar and became immersed in Indian culture, and before long converted to Sikhism. He is renowned for translating Sikh scripture and history into English and for publishing an extensive history of the Sikh religion and for promoting international awareness of and interest for Punjabi culture in the late 19th century.

Undergraduate Merit Scholarships (Value: €2,000)

Ten Undergraduate Merit Scholarships, comprising a partial fee waiver (value: €2,000), are available. These scholarships are aimed at undergraduate programmes in all areas of the NUI Galway curriculum.

Ireland has produced some of the greatest writers in literature. From James Joyce, Oscar Wilde, Ann Enright to William Yeats. It is a destination of each and every, who wants to study the archaic and modern literature. My name is Parul Verma and I am studying M.A in Culture and colonialism in NUIG. With experienced faculty, intensive course curriculum and cultural diversity, NUIG ranks among the top 1% in the world Q.S ranking of the universities. The university also provides generous scholarships for meritorious students. I am a recipient of the Max Arthur scholarship which is a full tuition fee waiver scholarship. I highly recommend NUIG for higher education. It positively transforms a student's intellectual, emotional and cultural life.

Jyotirmoy is currently studying a MSc in Data Analytics and was a recipient of the Max Arthur Macauliffe Special Merit Scholarship and has also been chosen as an Education in Ireland Student Ambassador. NUI Galway is one of the leading universities in the world with top quality teaching and research focus. Data Analytics has an applied expertise in data preparation statistics and machine learning to investigate complex problems in many various domains such as Interpreting, managing large amount of data set despite of hardware software constraints, also merging various data sources. Galway city is a nice place to live, with the authenticity to Irish life and culture surrounded by some of Ireland's most beautiful countryside. It offers you a mix of balanced academic and night life. I would recommend any prospective student especially from India to choose NUI Galway as their study destination.'

Hi, my name is Kanika Wadhwa, pursuing MS in Biotechnology at NUIG, Galway. I have been fortunate to be part of this university and environment that is known for its excellence for all right reasons and purposes. The studies here are excellent and engaging. All the professors are really helpful and I am having the time of my life. Not only studies but also the extra-curricular activities are helping me in my overall personality building. I am blessed to have achieved a full scholarship with the correct guidance of the University International officers and my counselors back home. I am very thankful for this opportunity.
